Statement regarding FSN2017 Results

The FSN2017 have been updated to version 2.0 due to a few changes:

- The Skid Pad results have been updated using the corrected time for right + left lap. There are no significant changes in the ranking.
- The Efficiency results have been updated due to a misinterpretation by the FSN Team. Rule D7.9.6. was not applied correctly. This leads to a different ranking order. Chalmers is the new winner, followed by Valencia and Ljubljana.
- The overall results have changed to the stated above and also include all pre-season penalties now. The ranking order for CV class has therefore changed.

The FSN Team apologizes for all inconveniences caused by the false scoring.
